Willie Warhawk watched many activities during the past school year, and after some thought, made his birds-eye view available on the following pages. The memories he has recorded include both routine and extraordinary events. He has illustrated and commented on classes, clubs, faculty and activities. The HAWK, in fact, reminisces about all kinds of things, ranging from debate and music, to mechanics and building trades.

Willie also has included, as usual, individual pictures of students, faculty, and administration, who together made the past school year a success.

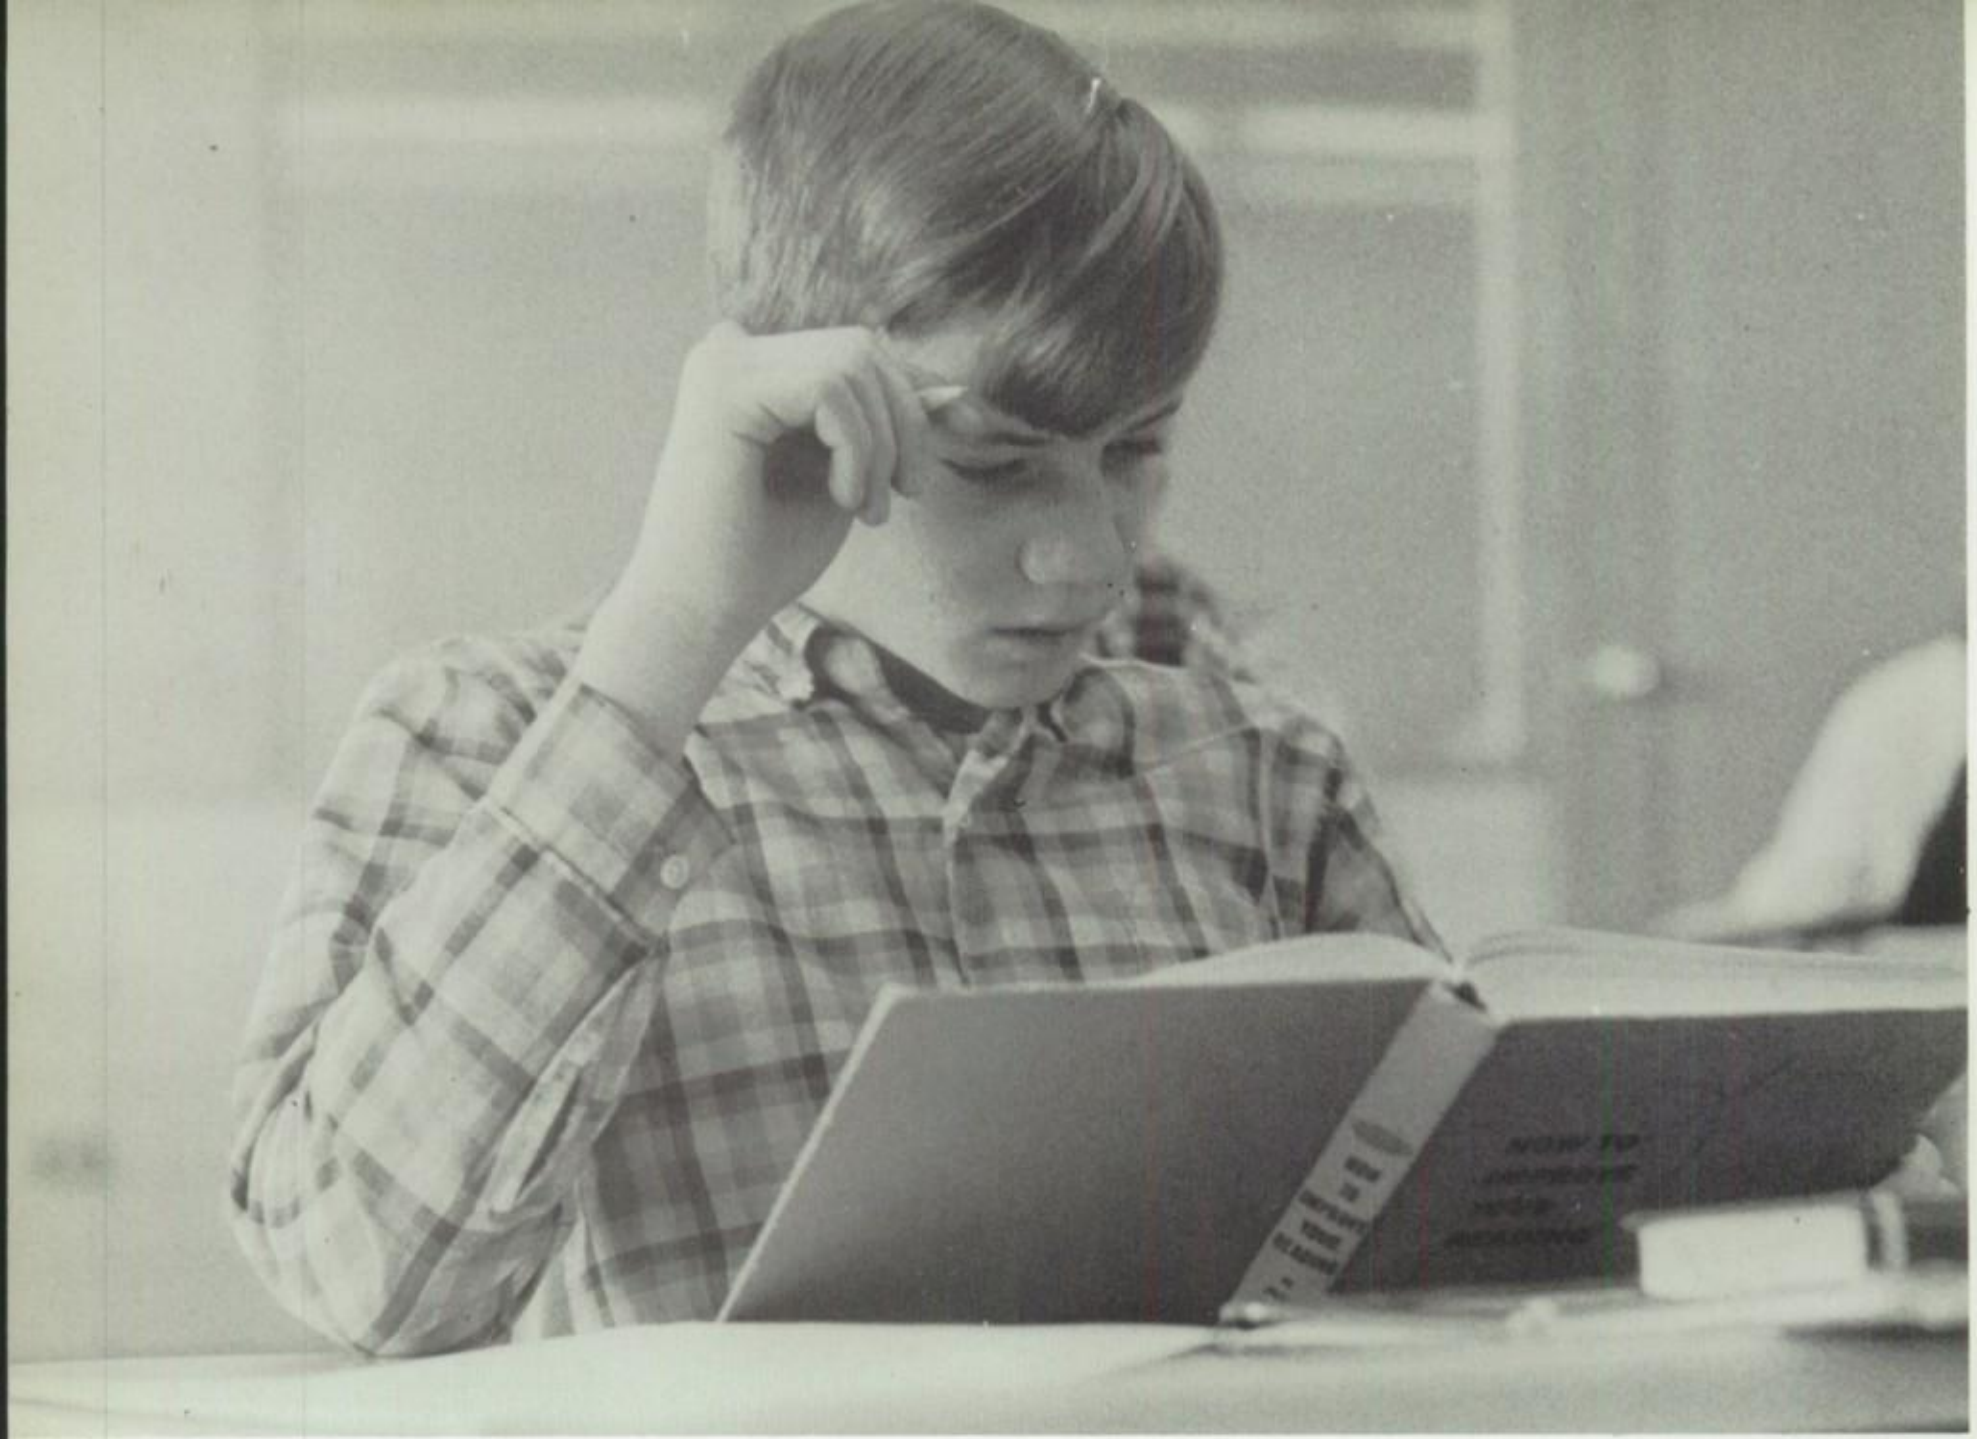
Whether you're interested in sports action, club groups or officers, classrooms or dances, there are 124 pages of words and pictures in this 1966 edition of the HAWK. Read it. Perhaps you will be able to relive at least a small part of what turned out to be a most enjoyable year.

Daily school routine begins with a quiet morning walk, drive, or bus ride, but the morning isn't quiet for very long. At school, where nearly everyone converges on the building about 20 minutes before class-time, student throngs hurry briskly toward main doorways.

STUDENT LIFE

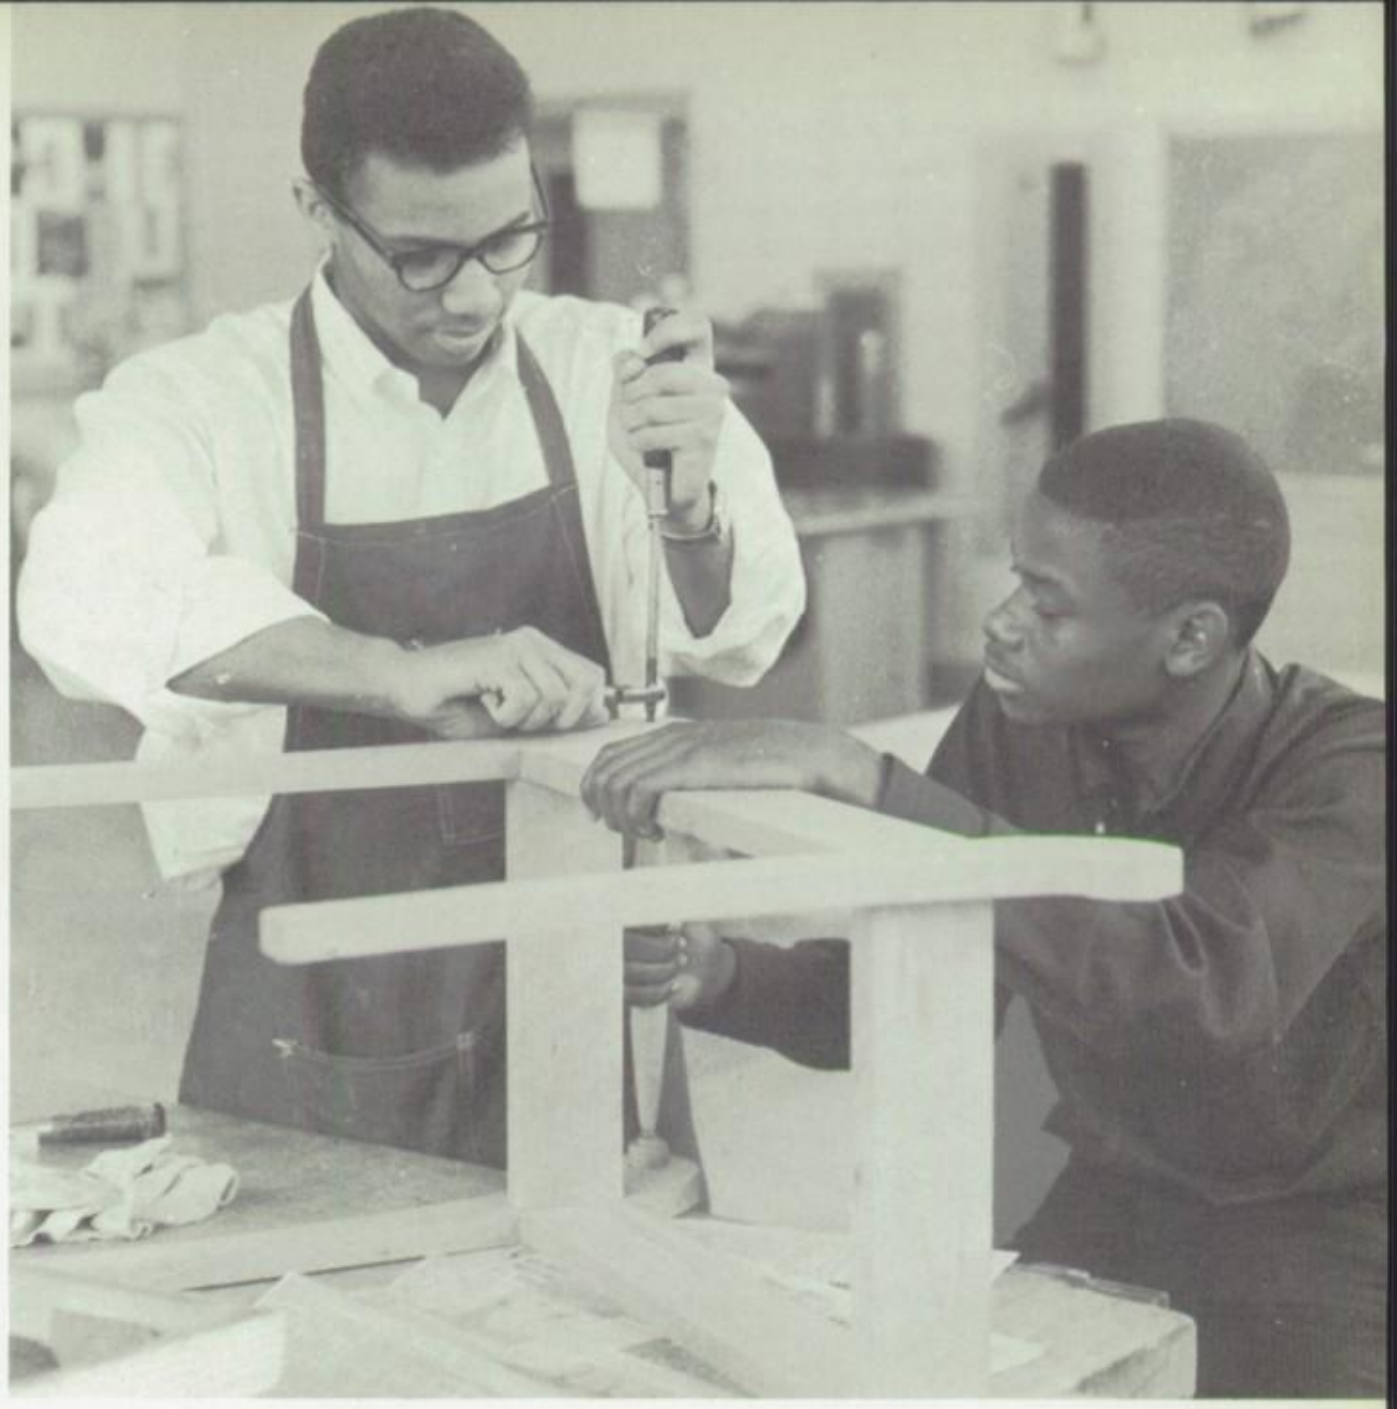
Inside, corridor traffic is also fast-paced.

Suddenly, ringing bells quiet the corridors by signaling the start of classes.

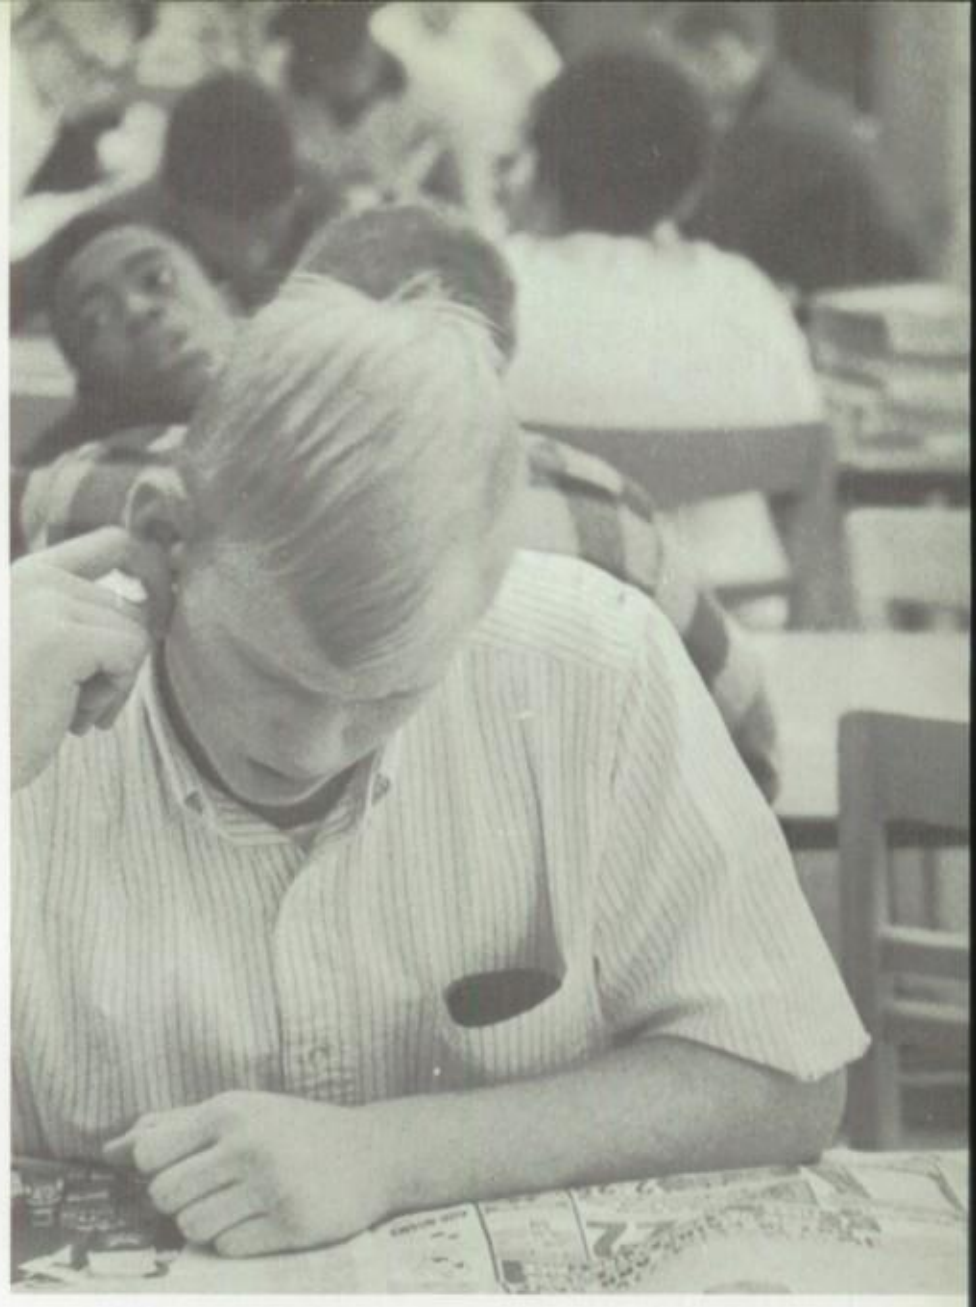


. . . a greenhouse project or writing, everyone settles down quickly for a fast-paced day of learning.

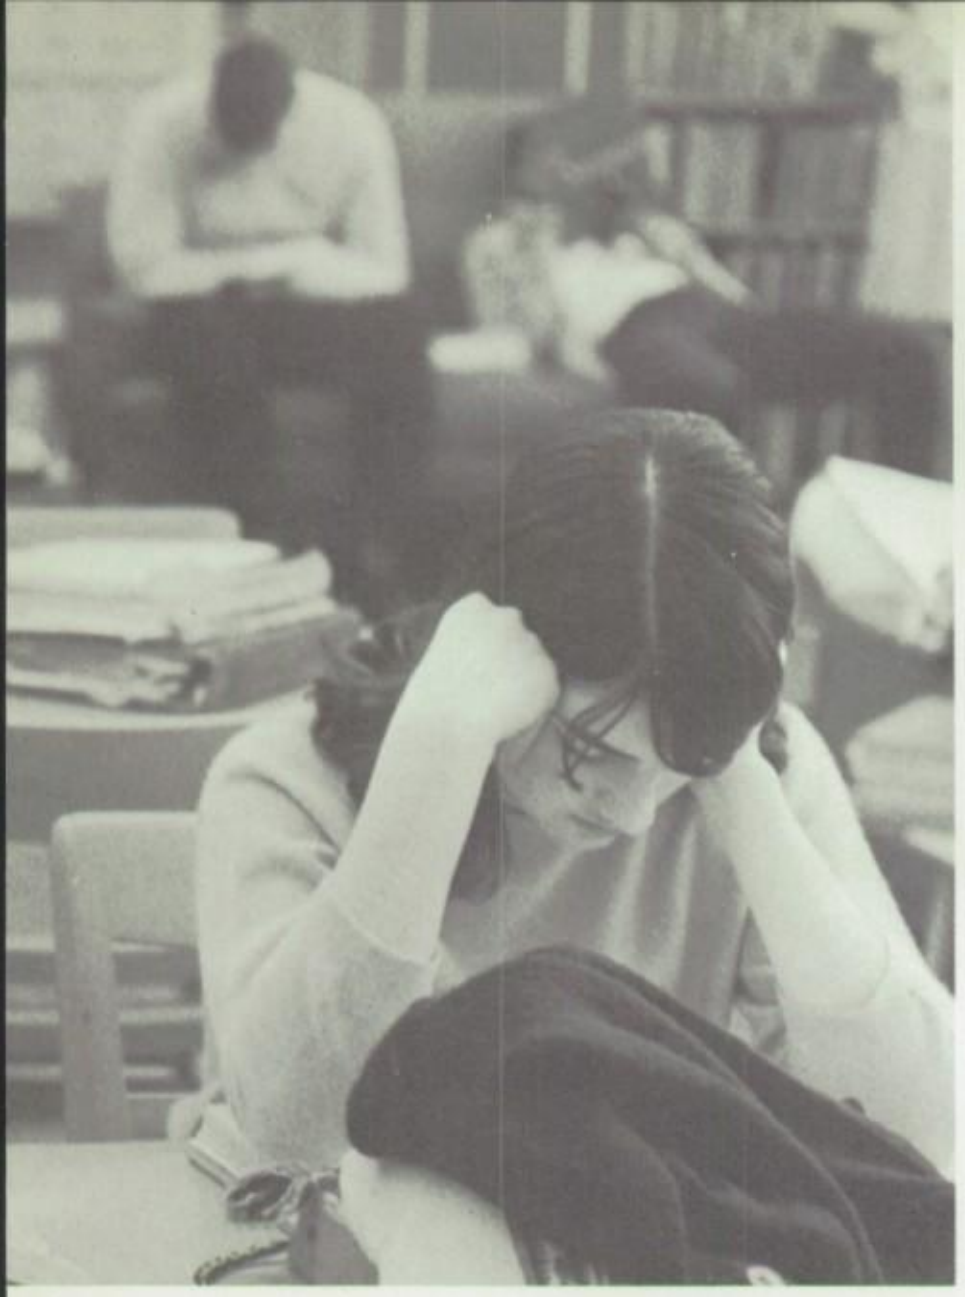
Whether it's reading or woodworking, . . .

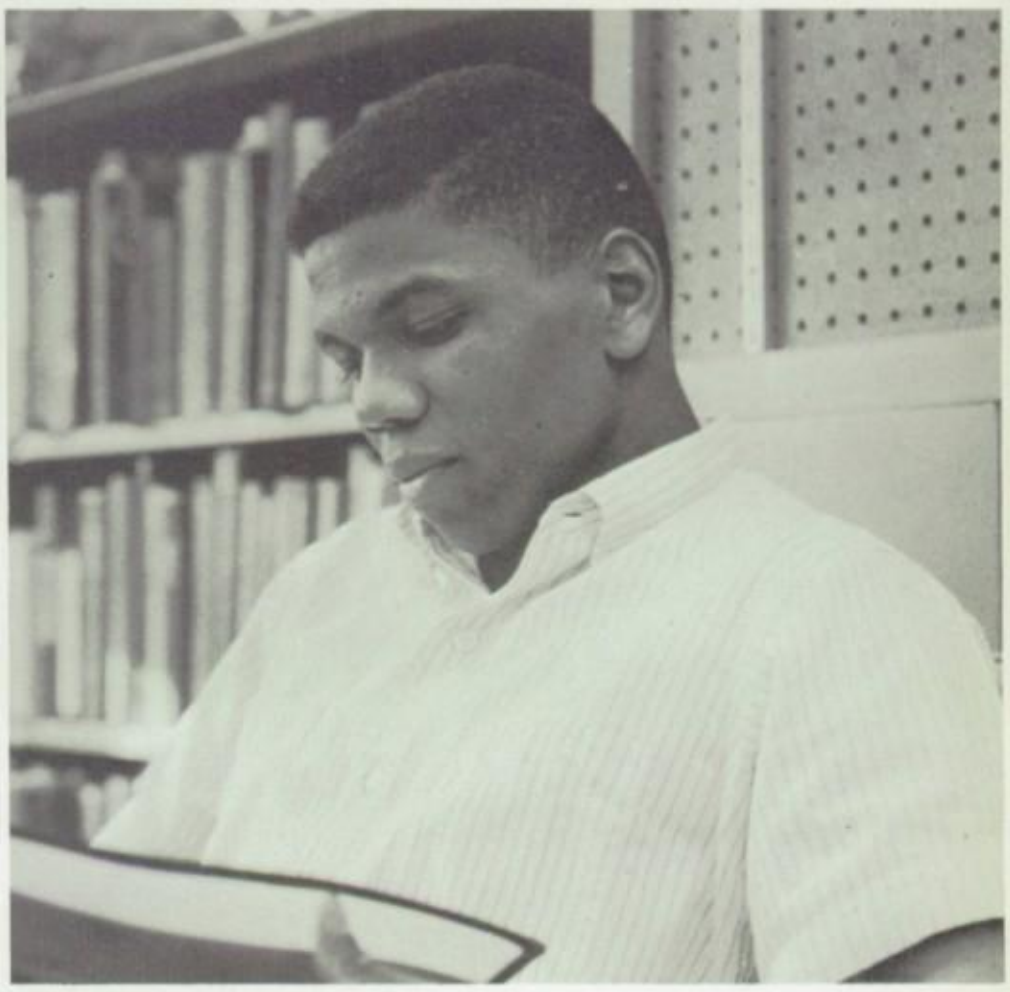


At least on occasion, everyone spends some time in the library . . .



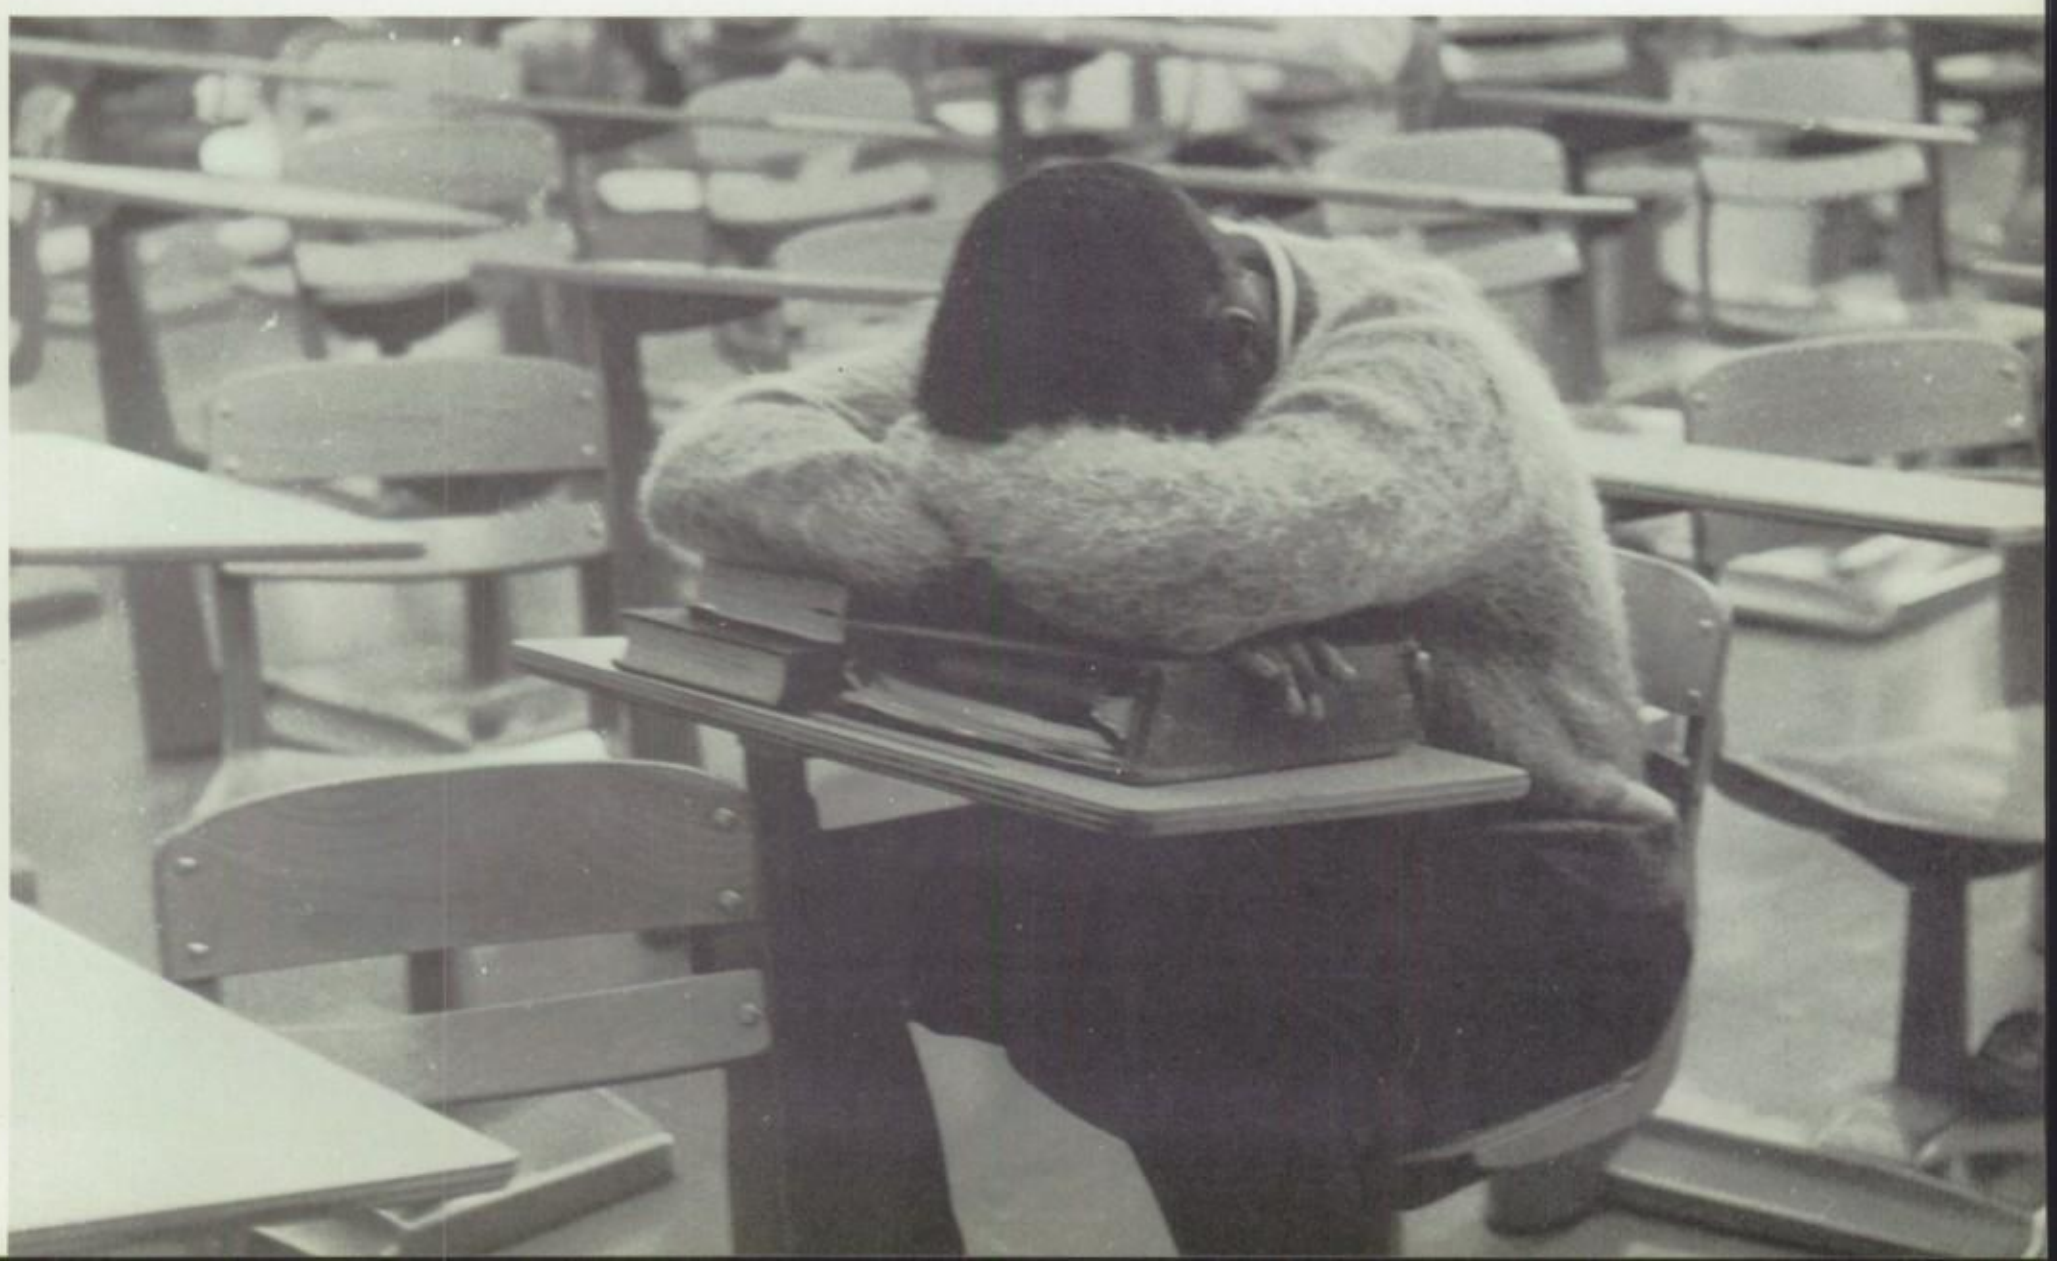
. . . and at assemblies.





Much career information is available in the Guidance Office, where many students visit with their counselors more than the required number of times each year.

If a day is really tough, a study hall is very convenient.



Shortly after Christmas the cafeteria staff, on their own time, baked and sent more than 200 dozen cookies to former NCCHS students serving in the armed forces.

Booked-lined ledges means it's rush time and talk time at lunch time.
At lunch time the cafeteria is a very busy place, but it is used many other times too, for meetings, movies, banquets, plays and . . .

. . . "Ouch!" most won't forget such occasions as when the cafeteria becomes a center for administration of shots.

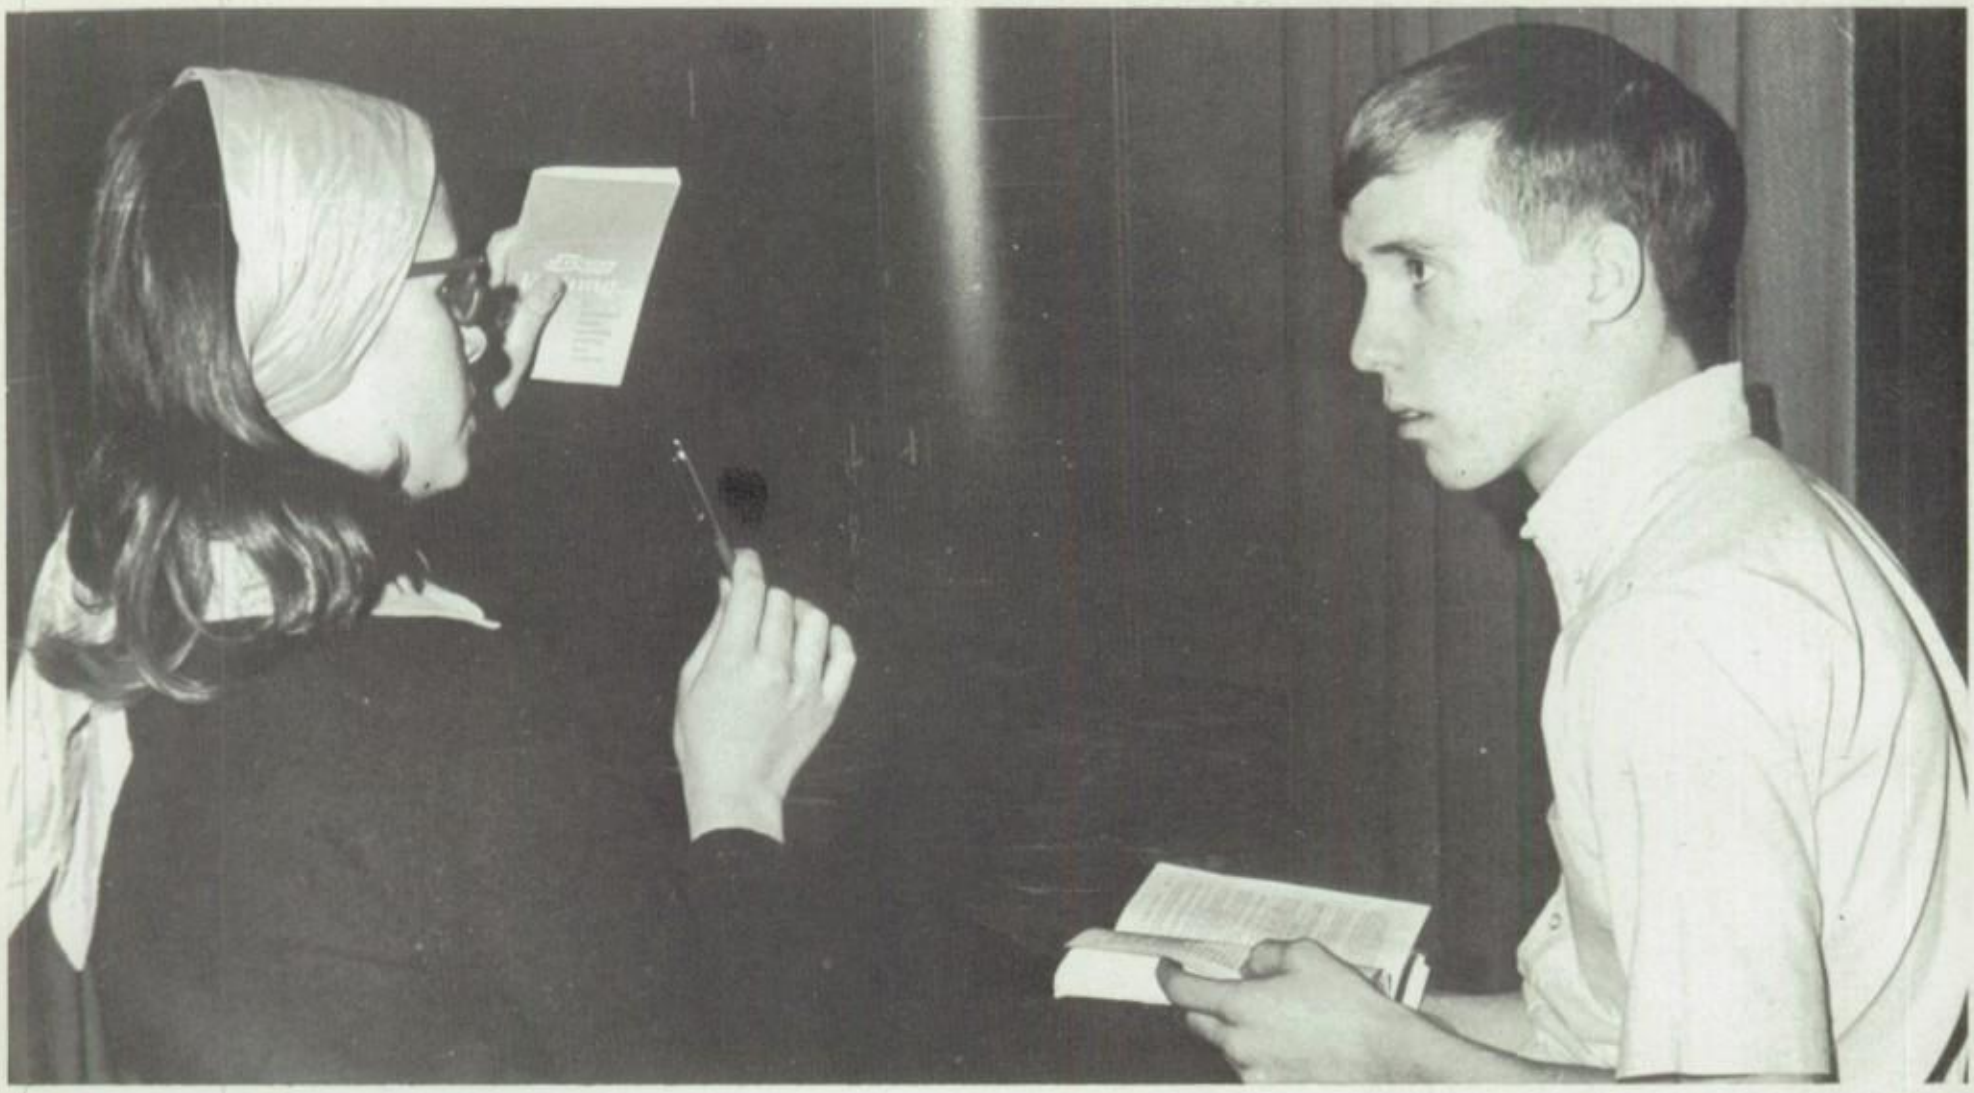
Each morning common routine is varied during the activity period when extra-curricular activities are available. Some groups, like yearbook and newspaper staffers, frequently work after regular school hours.

Each year thousands of pictures are processed, edited and cropped for use in the newspaper and yearbook.

At the printing shop, concentration, alertness and know-how are evident characteristics of good newspaper editors.

Yearbook editing means precise planning and precise execution of detailed layouts, copy and pictures.

At times there are puzzling questions and even disagreements, usually about editorial policy.



Ed and Annie discuss lines for the Spring Play.

ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT COUNCIL

One of the many services rendered by the student council during the school year was the placement of new American flags in all classrooms. The flags, which were donated by the local Veterans of Foreign Wars, were presented to Student Council President Ted Canelakes by the post commander, Mr. Farrella.

Of the very many organizations at NCCHS, Student Council is one of the most active. Comprised of seven officers and a representative from each homeroom, it strives to promote the welfare of the student in the classroom, in his activities, and in his community. Each year the Student Council sponsors numerous dances, concessions, and projects such as the Community Chest Drive, the Heart-Cancer Drive, School Spirit Week, Homecoming, and National Safety Week. Other duties of the Student Council include keeping the Events Board up to date, distributing monthly calendars, providing guides for Night School, conducting assemblies, conducting elections, and offering advice to other school organizations.

STUDENTS

SENIORS

When we entered NCCHS as freshmen we had little or no idea of what was in store for us. Things were happening fast and we were swept along. After dragging our feet we eventually put them under ourselves and started moving on our own.

No one who participated, no one who was there, can ever forget the mood, the work, the pain, the joy of the moments everyone shared: the feeling of relief at the end of a big test; the knotted stomachs when the other team was ahead; the flowing logic at debate tournaments; the magic air of Prom; opening night of the big play and the applause. . . .

No, when we first arrived, we had no idea of the things in store for us. Now, despite the work, frustration and pain, we realize the past four years were most enjoyable; there are few of us who would have wanted it any other way.

JUNIORS

After completing a most successful year, both academically and athletically, the class of 67 feels that they are ready to take their place as responsible leaders of intra school activities. They have achieved a unity in the past three years that is usually associated only with families. They have enjoyed success together and, in some instances, suffered defeat together, but always as the Junior class and not as mere individuals.

We are proud of their achievements in the past year: their first successful social venture, the junior prom, and the controversy it brought; homecoming concessions, and the joy of watching some fine juniors perform on Varsity Teams. Many of them can look back at this year and point to one of the symbols of true maturity—the first letter in Varsity competition.

As a class, it can never be contested that they have contributed to our school. They have supported our school to the hilt and their enthusiasm in coming years cannot help but reap success for the entire class.

SOPHOMORES

The year of 1965-66 has been a fruitful one for the Sophomore class. Having taken part in many activities, they have begun to get at least some idea of the vast world that awaits them. A successful year in sports, being accepted as working upperclassmen at N. C., and being a part of the inter-workings of high school life: all such things make them look forward to their junior year with great anticipation. But they can never begin to forget the fun of being sophomores, the satisfaction that has been attained by their class and the things they accomplished by working as a well-oiled, well functioning unit. They can truly say that they have taken great strides in becoming the kind of class that N. C. prizes highly.

The freshman class has taken a first step on the path to responsible citizenship. Responsibility, in fact, has become a freshman password to high school life. They have found that working as a class in many activities has brought them success and a step closer to becoming upperclassmen. Earning freshman numerals, running through the halls to class, and even a first detention—all such things will remain in their memories, as the green of inexperience wears off to be replaced by red and white. In the future they will remember the year of 1965-66 as an important part of the blueprint for their lives, and in the remaining three years will do even more in formulating their future success.
